To Whom It May Concern,

Marly Higgins was 10 years old when we became her neighbor in Rumbai, Sumatra, Indonesia. We arrived with a 1 year old and added three more children during the next five years there.

At first, Marly came to our house to play with my 1 year old son. In the years to follow, I contracted her to babysit for my children. Even at a young age, Marly was capable of attending to the children's needs as well as entertaining them. In addition, I felt Marly would act with reasoning in an emergency situation.

On one occasion when Marly came to visit after the birth of our second child, I noted that she was sensitive to our older child's feelings. She went first to my 2 year old for a hug and a chat before carrying him with her to see the new baby. I was touched and surprised at her insight.

On another occasion, Marly about 13 years old, was staying while one of the children was having an early afternoon nap. I suggested that when the child awoke, Marly could ride the child to me on the back of my bike in an infant seat. My children were accustomed to being rode on my bike daily. Marly promptly admitted to me that she did not feel confident enough riding a bike to try riding the child. I was happy to know she recognized this as being an unsafe risk for my child.

In summary, I believe Marly is of good character, She is honest, reliable, conscientious, and responsible. Her happy and kind nature draws children to her. She communicates easily with adults as well. She is polite and agreeable.

We have enjoyed having Marly around our family and our family around Marly.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Nancy W.
