TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

We have known Marly Higgins for eight years or since she was eight years old. We live in a very small community where adults and children are very familiar with each other's lives, which makes us feel qualified in writing this reference.

Marly has always been a cheerful and personable girl. At quite an early age, nearly as long as we have known her, she has been interested in children and babies. She has that relaxed and special way of making friends with children. With babies, she is able to soothe and happily care for them within or without the mother's presence. The above we never fully appreciated until we had children of our own. Though now she can only visit or babysit on school vacations, she is at the top of our toddler's list. We are confident and our children happy, when she can watch our three and a half and one year old.

In good faith we can say that Marly is responsible, trustworthy and genuinely interested in children.

Yours sincerely,

Mr. and Mrs. Mark F.
